The place of origins

At the place of origins a fire burns

At the place of origins a stone crumbles

At the place of origins a trickle of water runs

At the place of origins a breeze grazes my cheek

I stand at the place of origins

Where form is forming from the formless fog

A form approaches then dissolves

Forms appear in succession

Phantasmagoric

Hallucinatory

Some are the work of origins

Some are figments of my own design

I stand at the place of origins
Beyond this there is nothing
Before this there was nothing
After this nothing will be repeated
Again and again
At the place of origins
Where nothing remains

I stand at the place of origins
A form is approaching
I remain silent
Silence permeates all that is
Nothing is revealed
I am nothing
I stand at the place of origins
Silence is loudest after the children are removed

Silence is loudest at the place of origins
Fire begets fire
This fire that rages
Consumes nothing
I am awake
I have awakened
a-ho!

Arabesque Mountain Dream

We dream fires in the morning
Slumbered in warm beds
Cozy and snuggled against the autumn crisp air
We dream fires in our nostrils of yearning

We dream fires in our sleep
Sparks of madness energy silence splash
Eros and darkness in the crevices and creases
We dream fires eroding the edges of skin

We dream fires across the sky templar
Raw umber earth ground dirt soil brown
Crystalline streams of light across the universe
We dream fires in this holy space of dreaming

We dream fires burning at the edge of our fingertips
Touching the intensity of slumber and slow breathing
Penetrating the stillness of red sequined passion
We dream fires in the skin of sleeping with constant contact

We dream fires and after the dreaming
We awaken to the fires of this realm
Smoke and embers flaming across space and time
We dream fires into being and soak up this warmth
A-ho!

It's a tribal hedgerow

It's the tribal moment of my aspirations

It's the tribal moment of silent desperation

I was sitting in the green of polite consideration

But it's no use in this situation

You were walking on the sea

You were standing on a shell so free

You were different than the rest to me

But in the end it wasn't meant to be

I looked up at the sky hoping for a sign
A cloud floated by in the shape of a rind
I sang the blues but forgot the second line
If freedom is about nothing left to lose I got mine

It's a tribal situation seeking shelter from the storm
It's a tribal hedgerow of reality taking form
She was standing in by the road to further scorn
I was moving on past this to some other norm

And it's a tribal hedgerow growing thick
If you can't believe it then deliver quick
Haters hate the way it makes them sick
The spider's web catches what will stick

Nothing yields nothing so lose that too
Emptiness isn't equal to a hole in the shoe
Eternity isn't a phase that we're going through
And it's a tribal hedgerow for the tried and true

She stands there with her mockery bouquet
I yielded to the promise of an empty tray
What doesn't hurt doesn't matter anyway
So after the bleeding stops we kneel and pray

And it's a tribal hedgerow standing against the wind
We're in it for the long haul so let's continue to begin
"Nothing left to lose" is the anthem and my best friend
And when silence defeats us we'll all shed a grin
A-ho!
